Application for Internship at Bosch Management Consulting JobID REF180041J, Supply Chain Domain

Karlsruhe, XX.XX.XXXX

Dear Mr. Müller,

During the KIT Career Fair 2024, I had a discussion with your colleague Melanie Schwarz about the impact of rising energy prices on Bosch's supply chains. As a master's student in Industrial Engineering with a focus on Supply Chain and several internships under my belt, I am excited to apply to your team.

I am accustomed to working independently, which for me entails structuring my work and projects autonomously and reflecting on my actions. This trait allowed me to undertake the analysis of transport orders as part of a sub-project during my internship at Simon-Kucher and Partner, from which I developed a strategy for product and pricing. Particularly in strategy development, I have benefited from my ability to quickly identify problems and opportunities, devising approaches and working conceptually. For instance, I identified time zones as a previously overlooked but critical success factor and accorded them high importance in my strategy development. Another task during the internship involved researching and mapping the competitive situation in international logistics, where I leveraged my strong Excel skills and further expanded into database applications. This internship inspired me to gain more consulting experience, leading me to work as an intern at Horn & Company Financial Services. Drawing on my prior experiences, I quickly assumed responsibility for project tasks. One of my highlights was presenting the results of my analysis of potential users for the "FinPlus" software to the client. Through targeted presentation preparation, I learned to present confidently, even at the executive level. My international experiences in Spain and Australia have shaped me both interculturally and linguistically, facilitating my ease in collaborating with various nationalities in English.

Through my internships, I am confident in my decision to pursue a career in consulting after my studies. I am eager to grow further and embrace new professional challenges alongside Bosch. Your internship offers me the perfect opportunity to apply my knowledge from external consulting and expand into the field of internal consulting. I am available starting August 2024 for a period of six months and look forward to our conversation.

Sincerely

Signature
